Know Why You Believe:
Evidence that Demands a Verdict
Bob Witmer
Online

This study will focus on developing a biblically-based approach to evangelism. The objectives are: 1) to provide a strengthening of the basis of faith for members in general; 2) to provide help with spontaneous evangelism opportunities, and then tailor it, as interest supports, to an evangelism focused effort; 3) to undergird evangelism with apologetics and knowing why we believe what we believe, and how to effectively communicate the truth to various people in their life situations.

Classic Authors of the Church
Jeff Castor & Fred Putnam
Online

During the first half of 2021, the Classical Christian Authors group will read and discuss what is considered by some to be the greatest work of medieval Christianity--The City of God, which was written by St. Augustine as a response to the fall of the City of Rome to the Visigoths in AD 410. Among many other questions, Augustine asks how Christians should respond when the world seems to have fallen apart (as many felt when Rome fell, and as some feel today).

Ministering to a Fallen World
Paul Baldwin
Online

The culture is as chaotic as at any point in our lifetimes. COVID-19, racial unrest, widespread loneliness, and stark divisions are all symptoms of a world that seems to be out of control. Even believers, and the Church in general, may seem to have lost their voices or prefer to huddle together, hoping that God will simply step in and make things right. The world is in pain and we have an obligation to love our neighbors as ourselves. This class will focus not only on the problems we see but how Christians can recover our voice and shine the light of Christ in the darkness.

Bible Translations
Jim Rich
Online

Have you ever wondered, “Why are there so many English translations of the Bible?” or “Which one is the ‘best’ translation to use?” Many Christians are asking the very same questions. Join us as we explore the importance of translations, the history of the more significant translations, the principles used by the different versions, and helpful guidelines in selecting from among the many translations on the market, as well as how to maximize a translation in your personal devotions.

There may be as many denominations in the US as there are varieties of Heinz products, and even within our own tradition, there is a veritable alphabet soup of Presbyterians. And there have been a number of crucial developments within modern Presbyterianism that have, for better or worse, molded it into what it is today. Come along for a better understanding of our theological heritage as we look at the important developments that have shaped our denominational landscape.

From beginning to end, it reminds us that nothing can separate the children of God from His love. We will look at six of the twelve studies from this teaching series, in which Dr. Derek Thomas exegetes this stunning passage of Scripture verse by verse and explains why he considers it to be the greatest chapter in the entire Bible.
